An adaptable lamp collection with an intuitive design

Normann Copenhagen introduces its newest lamp collection, Hat, named after its recognizable silhouette. The collection includes both pendants and linear lamps in various sizes. Common for both variants is the distinctive conical shape of the lampshades, which emit a generous beam of direct light downwards from each lamp. The design is simplistic and clean, providing an intuitive indication of how the light is emitted. A column of light extends from the lampshades, showcasing the design process where functionality has paved the way for the design idiom.

The linear version, Hat Lamp Linear, is available in two different sizes and consists of either three or four spots. This creates a cohesive line of light that hovers in the air, making the lamp suitable for illuminating a dining table or kitchen area. An especially functional feature of the linear lamp is its ability to adjust the brightness and color of the light using multifunctional LED technology. This allows for controlling the light's intensity and hue to the desired environment and mood. From a warm and cozy light for relaxed moments to a sharper, more productive illumination suitable for workspaces, the Hat Linear Lamp offers something for every need. The light is adjusted using two discreet buttons located at the base of the lamp.

Additionally, the Hat Lamp is also available as a classic pendant, featuring a hat-like lampshade made of powder-coated aluminum with a color-coordinated textile cord. The Hat pendants come in three different sizes and two timeless colors of Black or Warm Grey.

The collection's adaptability offers a multitude of options to accommodate both aesthetic and functional needs of all kinds. Whether as a linear lamp or a classic pendant, the modern and uncomplicated Hat Lamp will illuminate with elegance.
